

IO7 – MOOC for Teachers

Self-directed Learning Resource 1

Topic:	Copyrights and Licenses assigning the right attributions
Title:	Eucational Attributes
Time:	It will take you around 40min to read through the documents take note and sketch out class room exercises on assigning the right attributions
Type of Resource:	On line guide
Content of the Resource	This set of links will guide you through assigning the right attributions to image, video, on line course content, derivative work and off line content. Assigning the right attributions to different type of files and being able to identify whether the attributions related to title author source license type are correct. These on line resources allow you as teacher to get your students understand: what copyright is and correctly identify what types of products it covers; explain how copyright applies to downloading, uploading, and P2P (peer2peer) file sharing; define and give examples of fair use; identify proper use of fair use; create awarness and a new culture among students around fair use and CC licenses.
Link to resources	https://wiki.creativecommons.org/wiki/Best_practices_for_attribution https://moodle.gprc.ab.ca/mod/book/view.php?id=33557&chapterid=2523